Watter Girls and Their Earnings.

"To make a good waiter," said the proprie-tor of a restaurant in which the waiters are all women, "a girl must be clean, patient, pas all women, "a girl must be clean, patient, pas-sably good looking, and not too high toned. She must dress neatly and be quick and bright. We employ about a dozen girls here. They earn $4 a week, and work about eight hours a day. If a girl is a favorite with the customers she picks up a good deal in fees. I have frequently seen a girl here shake twenty ten-cent pieces out of her pocket at the end of a day. the end of a day.

Some of the girls who have been here a long time have their regular customers, who are dissatisfied if any one else waits upon them. Some of the girls are away on their vacation now, and yesterday two old gentlevacation now, and yesterday two old gentlemen, who have been dining here for a year, were compelled to let a strange girl wait upon them. They found fault with everything, and when they went out they inquired when their girl would be back, saying they would dine somewhere elso in the meantime. The girl who waited upon them is a very good waiter, and has several customers who will let no one else wait upon them. One of the girls here has been waiting upon two gentlemen for two years. They never order anything, but simply tell Lizzle the condition of their appetite and leave the rest to her. When Lizzle went away on her vacation the gentlemen, whom she calls her vacation the gentlemen, whom she calls her firm, gave her $9."

"Are the girls ever insulted or treated

"Not very often, and when they are they are protected if they complain to me. A man who will insult a girl who is trying to earn an honest living will steal spoons, and insis not wanted here. A few of my girls are married, which is nothing against them, whatever it may be against the husbands who allow them to earn their own living. That little yellow-haired Irish woman behind the counter has two children and a husband big enough to eat a team of horses. I don't know what's the matter with him, but something is certainly wrong somewhere, or she would be home looking after the young ones."—New

She'll Repent at Leisure.

One who steadily reads the daily news papers will readily recall the many instances happening lately where young girls married strange men, only to be robbed and descried. These cases teach the lesson that girls need to be taught that a partner for life should at least show as fair credentials as would be re-quired for a business partnership between men, that can be severed when either fails to act honorably toward the other.

A stranger who takes a sudden fancy to a young woman will respect her all the more if she requires ample proof of his respectability before accepting his offer of marriage. It may be all very nice to show blind confidence in his truth and sincerity by not making the in his truth and sincerity by not making the necessary inquiries, and taking his word for his standing in the community at his former abiding place. She may think it very romantic, while he is likely to imagine that it is her anxiety to secure a husband that actuates her, and laughs in his sleeve at her credulity. If a little less romance and a great deal more practical sense was brought to bear upon the question of matrimony there would possibly be less business for the divorce courts, and no field for the plausible ruscals who are going about from place to place dewho are going about from place to place de-ceiving women for the purpose of robbing them.-Chicago Tribune

A Good Tooth Powder.

A tooth powder should possess certain characteristics. It should be antiseptic, cooling, agreeable to taste and smell, and have no injurious action on the teeth. After use it should leave the teeth white and a sensation of freshness and cleanliness in the mouth. As an antiseptic in this connection nothing or displace boric acid. Dr. A. D. McGregor writes to The British Medical Journal that he has prescribed and used the following powde has prescribed and used the following powder for years and can recommend it: Boric acid, finely powdered, 40 grains; chlorate of potash, 30 grains; powdered guaiacum, 20 grains; prepared chalk, 60 grains; powdered carbon-ate of magnesia to make 1 ounce; attar of roses, half a drop. The boric acid in solution gets between the teeth and the edges of the grains and there it discharges its antisonic gums and there it discharges its antiseptic functions; the chlorate and gualacum contribute their quota to the benefit of the gum and the mucous membranes generally; the chalk is the insoluble powder to detach the particles of tartar which may be present, and the magnesia the more soluble soft powder which cannot harm the softest enamel.—Chi-

The Subject of Personal Purity Girls find their way into houses of ill-fame precisely as boys become libertines; simply for the want of sound, thorough, persistent home training in the matter of personal purity. It is a dislike of study and occupation, love of finery, love of admiration, working in concert with natural but wholly untrained, unenlightened passion that brings the greatest number of girls to shame.

If a man deceives a woman to her loss of honor it is, in ninety-nine cases out of a hun-dred, because that girl's mother has deceived her in the first place, has withheld from her the knowledge, the training the sound disci-pline which were needed to make her proof against temptation. Let us cease to study this subject as a case of woman vs. man, or the contrary, and regard it as one to be grap-pled with in the home by both parents, indeed, but especially by the mother, because to her God has given the greater opportunity; and let boys and girls be alike taught the great laws of nature and revelation concerning the relations of the sexes.-C. A. Corbin in Inter-

Ideal Women.

The women of fiction form, perhaps, the most delightful ideal possession of the civilized races of the world. Invention, based upon imitation, has produced true and lovely treasured the first produced true and lovely images of the fairest and sweetest creatures that make the earth divine. To few men is given to know and meet in actual life won who rise to the altitude of worth and irm of the women of the poets, and it is eminently the happy task of the poet to dbody for us, in suggestions of deathless loveliness, beings who answer to the highest conceptions that man can form of beauty, of tenderness, of purity and of poblaness. It tenderness, of purity and of nobleness. In the magic mirror of the poet's imagination are fixed to permanence the images of the fairest and dearest of God's feminine crea-tures.—Gentleman's Magazine.
